Some things have changed in our lives' in the last few years. Is our current insurance coverage still aimed at our financial goals?

Is Our Life Insurance Coverage Up to Date?

With all of the things going on in our lives, thinking about the insurance coverage we have isn't something that's top of mind.

In the last few years, we moved to a new house, my husband took a new job and we sent our oldest child to college. And on top of that, recent changes in the economy affected some of our assets. So it's safe to say this was a good time to reassess our financial situation.

We called our insurance agent* last week to talk about our concerns. In reviewing our portfolio of coverage, some of our existing policies aren't necessarily in sync today with what they were even five years ago. The most surprising fact was that our life insurance coverage wasn't up to par, given we moved into a larger house and my husband got a promotion at work. If something happened to him, we realized it would be tough to keep up the mortgage payments to stay in our new house.

We plan to meet with our agent* at least every year so we know our life insurance coverage matches our financial needs.
